I have been directly working with John to implement a key company CRM project. This project involved several countries and has loads of cross-functional dependencies. Yet, despite the complexity that represented this project, I was so amazed by the ability of John to quickly understand the project and give tips, insights and useful recommendations to make this project successfully come true within a satisfactory period of time.

John is definitely one of the most open-minded, detail-oriented and fun people I have worked with. I would definitely recommend John if you are looking for someone you can trust, and that will drive your project in a smart way from the right beginning to the right end.
